Access to Strasbourg:

You can reach Strasbourg by plane (Strasbourg-Entzheim airport) or by train.

There are additional possibilities via Karlsruhe-Baden Baden Airpark which is 50 km away from Strasbourg: <http://www.badenairpark.de> (Ryanair, Air Berlin, Hamburg International) or via Francfort airport (there are Lufthansa buses to Strasbourg and train connections from the airport) or via Bâle-Mulhouse airport.

Access to Strasbourg centre:

If you travel by train, you will arrive at Strasbourg Central Station. From there you can either walk (10mn) to Hotel Le Grillon and to Comfort Hotel and Hotel de France or, if you prefer, you can take the tramway (line A or D) and get off at "Place de l'Homme de Fer" (2 stops). The Hotel is 5 mn away.

If you travel by plane, the connection between Strasbourg airport (Entzheim) and the city centre will be through a shuttle train which leaves the airport/Strasbourg station up to 4 times per hour. The train journey takes 9 mn between the airport and Strasbourg station. A covered pedestrian bridge connects the airport to the train station.

The ticket costs 3.50 € and includes the tram fare in town. Taxis are also available for a cost of approximately 40 € (weekdays).

For those of you staying in hotels in the centre of town (such as Comfort Hotel Center and Hotel de France), you can either walk from the station (cross the station square, walk down the rue du Maire Kuss and across the bridge; make a left turn after the bridge: Comfort Hotel is at the corner of the next bridge and Hotel de France is a few meters farther on the right). You can also take the tram at the station (Lines A, direction Illkirch or D direction Aristide Briand) and get off at Homme de Fer.

Access to PEGE (61 avenue de la Forêt Noire, Strasbourg), where the meeting will take place

IBIS Styles Strabourg Centre – Petite France is located in the centre of town with direct access by tram to our building where the meeting will take place.
